Family Testimonials

All Saints Catholic School recognizes that choosing Catholic education is an important family decision. It is a great privilege and responsibility we have to our families to ensure that our students are welcomed daily into a Christ-centered and nurturing environment – one that fosters growth in mind, body and spirit and encourages each student to reach his or her personal potential.

My family started at All Saints in 2001 for our first child who is now a senior in high school. We stayed ever since and will be staying until our last child completes 8th grade. Thirteen years is a long time for a family to invest in a school and that speaks well for All Saints. The families at ASCS belong to a community where friendships are developed and fostered through the years among the children and parents as well. It is a school that builds strong academic standards for the children to prepare them for a well rounded future. Besides academics, religious education is an integral part of the curriculum that fosters moral values and emphasizes respect for self, others and the community. Likewise, it builds sportsmanship and teamwork through the CYO programs. In a nutshell, ASCS aims to develop the body, mind and spirit of each child who enters through their doors.

ASCS is big enough to have resources and activities for all children and small enough that no child gets 'lost' in a big school with big classes.

Our family has been very pleased with the level of education that our children have received during their years at All Saints Catholic School. Our oldest daughter has been extremely prepared for her high school transition. A Catholic school not only provides a high level of education, it has also helped build a strong religious foundation in a safe learning experience. The administrative staff and teachers have been professional and caring, many of them going above and beyond their required duties for our children.

All Saints Catholic School provides an environment that is challenging and encouraging for every student. As with many siblings, our children have very different learning styles and strengths from each other. The curriculum and teaching methods employed at ASCS have given each of our children the challenge and encouragement they have needed at different times to help them succeed in their assignments, tests, and projects. We have watched both of them grow into students who are confident and self-aware because of the opportunities to participate in planning and holding school masses, present class assignments, assist younger students, and work in groups for class assignments. They are proud of their accomplishments and their Catholic faith and values.

Family Testimonials...

The people we have met at All Saints, families and staff, have all played a role in growing our faith and sense of community. The kids are learning so much academically and spiritually. In the last few years our daughter and son have participated in the CYO athletic program and we have grown even closer with our All Saints family. There is a great sense of community when you work with other families to help support our children as they learn new things and grow physically and spiritually. As our children grow they go through many changes and it's a comfort to know they are doing this with many of the same kids and at a school they have grown up with for years. We chose All Saints to teach our children the importance of our faith and education and to be surrounded by others that feel the same way. Thank you All Saints.

Our daughter has had four phenomenal teachers that genuinely care about her personally as well as academically. The staff has also been outstanding, not to mention the caring community of families! You can't beat a Catholic based education!

We made the switch from Plymouth-Canton Public Schools this year because we were not happy with the academics or the structure of the public schools. At All Saints our kids are encouraged to succeed to their highest ability academically, as opposed to staying closer to the mean for the class. My husband and I also believe in self accountability. We want our children to know right from wrong, to have a conscious and to be empathetic. All Saints holds our children to higher moral standards which are invaluable lessons in life.

Choosing to send our children to All Saints was one of the best decisions we've ever made. Our decision has been reaffirmed year after year as we watch our children grow and learn. We originally sent our children here for the religious education and academics, but that was only the beginning of what we have gained. In addition to the excellent academics, the sense of family and community is amazing. Our children are learning about their faith, as well as academics in a warm, nurturing, and supportive environment. They are being taught morals, values, and charity that will stay with them throughout life. We have never doubted our choice and would choose All Saints again in a minute. All Saints is part of our family.

I believe All Saints provides excellent academics. I want my children to do well academically, but even more importantly I want them to grow up to be good people. Our children spend a good portion of the day at school. We attend All Saints because we know that the Catholic values that we teach at home are reinforced at school.

Family Testimonials...

All Saints is an excellent school, academically-speaking. What really sets it, apart, though, is the strong feeling of community among families, teachers and the administration. The people of ASCS demonstrate Catholic Christian principles through the way they interact with everyone and the way the school feels like an extension of a family.

Having two children who have already graduated from ASCS, I can guarantee that the education your child will receive is top notch, and truly prepares your child for their future education.

I would highly recommend all Saints Catholic School! I have been a public school teacher for twenty years and could not be happier with our choice of All Saints for our daughter. The teachers are not only highly competent in using best research based practices, but are among the most dedicated group of professionals to their teaching and their students I have seen. The administration is invested in ensuring the curriculum is rigorous and attainable to all students. We love the Catholic identity and values our daughter is exposed to daily at school and how it matches what we are doing at home. The school is a joyful place for students, teachers, and families! It amazes me how consistently happy everyone is whenever I am in the building, whether to volunteer in the classroom, on a committee, or for an after hours school event. We are so pleased and feel so blessed that our daughter is a part of this wonderful school!

The superior teaching staff, the quality curriculum and extra-curricular activities provide a successful learning environment that is heads and tails above other area schools. Our daughter looks forward to attending school and is thriving. We have recommended All Saints to several families and will continue to support the program. We look forward to sending our son to All Saints in a few years.

All Saints provides what no other school that I have been to can and that is a sense of community. From the moment you walk in the door you feel like you are a part of a family, a family that believes in the same values that you do and supports each other. The teachers are all very caring and are thoroughly invested in my child's Catholic Education. We are looking forward to watching our son continue to grow and learn at All Saints.

It is a joy and a privilege to belong to the ASCS community. This is a place where all are welcome and united by the shared goal of an exceptional faith-based education. Our children feel safe, cared for and important while at school, which is a testament to the amazing staff that surrounds them each day. Our daughter laments proceeding to the next grade every year because she can't imagine a teacher that she will love as much as the current one! For so many reasons, we thank God that we chose this path for our children's education.

All Saints Catholic School is not just a school, it is a community. Our kids are not only getting a good education, they now have an extended family and many opportunities to incorporate the Catholic faith into their daily life.

The skills acquired at All Saints prepared my daughter to excel, academically, spiritually and socially in high school.

This is our daughter's second year at All Saints and we could not be happier! As a public school teacher, we struggled with deciding where to send our children. We chose All Saints after visiting several schools including our local public school. We have been very impressed with the dedication of all staff members and their devotion to the school. We are very happy with the Core Knowledge curriculum and are amazed at the level of learning happening and how motivated our daughter is. It is obvious that the staff keeps current with research based best teaching practices. The small class size allows for children to get the attention they need to be successful and fosters a warm community feeling. Our daughter enjoys going to mass with the whole school and comes home telling stories of what she has learned about our faith. There are extra curricular activities for all ages and interests as well. All Saints has our highest recommendation!

We consider All Saints Catholic School a true blessing. Not only are our children receiving strong Catholic specific catechism in their religion classes with program they are now using, but our children are able to share with us regularly how our faith ties into what they are learning in reading, science, and social studies. The academic expectations are rigorous at All Saints Catholic School, but we have been thrilled to see what our children are exposed to and are mastering. In our experience, the teachers and administration have always been very knowledgeable, personable, and helpful to our entire family.
